Journal of Analytical Atomic Spectrometry (JAAS)

An International Journal on the Development and Application of Atomic Spectrometric Techniques

Journal of Analytical Atomic Spectrometry (JAAS) is a new international journal, launched in February 1986, which contains original research papers, short papers, communications and letters concerned with the development and analytical application of atomic spectrometric techniques. JAAS is published bimonthly and includes comprehensive reviews on specific topics, general information and news of interest to analytical atomic spectroscopists, including information on forthcoming conferences and book reviews. Special issues of JAAS will be published, devoted to subjects highlighted by particular symposia. Also included in JAAS are the literature reviews previously covered in Annual Reports on Analytical Atomic Spectroscopy.

JAAS has a style and format similar to that of the well-established journal The Analyst. JAAS provides an improved publication service to support the growing research efforts in, and applications of, atomic spectrometric techniques.

Six issues per annum
First Issue February 1986

The Analyst

An international journal of high repute containing original research papers on the theory and practice of all aspects of analytical chemistry drawn from a wide range of sources. It also publishes regular critical reviews of important techniques and their applications, short papers and urgent communications (which are published in 5-8 weeks) on important new work, and book reviews.

12 issues per annum; annual author and subject index.

Analytical Proceedings

Analytical Proceedings is the news and information journal of the Analytical Division. It contains special articles, reports of meetings, extended summaries or original papers, safety articles, details of recent legislation, surveys of equipment, and many other items of general interest to analytical chemists both in Britain and overseas.

12 issues per annum (plus index).

Analytical Abstracts

Analytical Abstracts endeavours to cover the whole field of analytical chemistry, providing more than 12,000 abstracts per annum of papers and books considered to be of importance and interest to analytical chemists. A subject index is provided in each issue and a volume index is produced annually.

12 issues per annum (plus index).

Analytical Abstracts is now available online – further information obtainable from:
The Royal Society of Chemistry, Sales & Promotion Dept., The University, Nottingham NG7 2RD.
